On June 5, 1895, the first issue of the "Bethel News" was published. In the spring of 1895, A. D. Ellingwood of Milan and Berlin, N. H., opened a job printing shop in Bethel, and the paper was printed in his shop. He was assisted by his wife, Lena.

Ernest C. Bowler acquired half interest in the paper in 1897, becoming sole owner a year later. During his ownership the business grew. In 1906 he opened an office in Rumford and published the "Rumford Cltizen" which was printed in Bethel. In 1908, the "News" and "Rumford Citizen" were combined as the "Oxford County Citizen".

A Linotype was acquired in 1906, believed to be the first for a country weekly paper in the state. A larger press was installed at this time. Before the advent of the Bethel Light Company, electricity for the print shop and several stores was provided by the office's power plant.

Fred Merrill of Bethel bought the business in January of 1913. Many improvements were made during an advisor to the Bank in invest-Mr. Merrill's tenure, including a ments, public relation and businew Linotype, replacing the original machine, Mr. Merrill returned to the Bethel National Bank as assistant cashier in 1920. He later, in the mid-1940's, became the manager of the National Bank's successor, the Bethel office of the Casco Bank & Trust Co.

David M. Forbes acquired the business of Mr. Merrill. Mr. Forbes had worked in the plant for some 14 years, beginning in the Bowler

In the fall of 1927, Carl L. Brown became owner of the business. He had worked at the plant since 1911. New equipment was added as necessary to maintain a country weekly newspaper and job printing shop. The newspaper press in-stalled by Mr. Bowler in 1906 was replaced in 1956. Mr. Brown was active in the business until he passed away unexpectedly on April 12, 1963, while at work in the

Until people have had time to become aware of the stickers no one that claims a right to use the facility will be denied the privilege. When we have had time to give everyone an opportunity to obtain one, the attendant will be yery strict in the enforcement of the regulation.

We are receiving excellent cooperation from residents of the area in assisting with the maintenance of the dump. The vast majority make an attempt to keep the place looking as attractive as that type of facility can look. Elwyn N. Dickey Showers dampened the Memorial Day services but not the enthusiasm of the few fathful of the American Legion in the Locke Mills and Bryant Pond area.

Past Department Commander John E. Howe, speaking at the Locke Mills Honor Roll, told the crowd, "I was appalled and angered when those in government proposed complete amnesty for those who shirked their duty and I will never support any person who proposes this sort of a program. Such action makes in vain the service and sacrifices of those we honor; in this moment of tribute. 'The challenge to the United States and the free world is to stand firm on our principals. Ever remember, 'Freedom is not Free.' Freedom exacts a price, but free men have found that price worthy of their best effort—Courage, Service and Sacrifice. Let not their efforts be in vain."

The parade began at the Legion Hall with Commander Cleveland Lovejoy as marshal and Preident Cathryn Lovejoy has Miss Lorri Ann Patten, carrying memorial poppies, marching with her.

The colors and firing squad filled their regular position and all stepped out to the inspiring music of the Telstar marching band led by their retiring director Glenn

More than a dozen members went over and carried their flags, Appearing with the Auxiliary representing the 4th generation was 41/2 month old Rebecca West in her carriage. Her grandmother and great grandmo-ther, were there, marching in the rain to the music of the Telstar band, for the third time.

There was a poppy window display at the laundry, Locke Mills, arranged by poppy chairman, Vera Cross and Sylvia Dunham.

Congratulations go to Past President Beverly Melville, who received her B. S. degree in Education May 17 from UMF.

The benefit dance the 24th for veteran Charlie Mason was well attended and a good sum realized. Thanks go to the committee and the Lovejoy orchestra for donating their talents.

23 Legionnaires and their ladies attended church services in Locke Mills and heard an inspiring sermon by Rev. John Haverinen on the meaning of Memorial Day.

The young mystery horseback rider was David Blackwell, in the Memorial Day parade at Locke Mills. He should be commended for the way he managed his animal and took care of emergencies.

30 Seconds WITH THE NAZARENE Rev. Barbara Huse, Pastor Bethel Church of the Nazarene

I Corinthians 13, This is our assignment for today. June is the month of roses, romance, and weddings. What is more wonderful than a day in June, the very beginning of summer days. These 13 verses from the Bible are the very best prescription for all of us these days. It is all about lovereal love-God's love. Yes, it is still true love. Love does make the world go 'round! We surely need more of this kind of love these days! God extends this love to all who will receive it! Once you have it you must also share it in order to keep it. This sounds rather strange indeed. The truth is, the more you share it, the more you have. Yes, this is ab-Stephanle Knight, an extension solutely true. The world today agent of the Oxford County Exneeds such love. Let us encircle all those around us with God's speaker at a meeting in Gilead on great love. Why should He love me so? I am sure none of us can answer this question. We can know it is true! Open up your heart and let his love shine in! We love Him, because He first loved us." I John 4:19.

> TWO TELSTAR STUDENTS ACT AS HONORARY PAGES AT AUGUSTA

Telstar Regional High School recently had the honor of sending two of its students to the Maine House of Representatives. Edward Kennett and Jeanne Manson spent two days at the State House, each acting in the capacity of Honorary Pages. Their duties involved running errands and delivering legislative documents and messages, They also had the opportunity to meet members of our State Government and to attend various hearings, including a meeting of the Governor's Executive Council.

The invitation to participate in this program was extended by Edwin H. Pert, Clerk of the House of Representatives.

NEWS FROM THE

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE It was Graduation Sunday, June at the Church of the Nazarene as the church honored its youth. *It was also a special Sunday as the church received two new members into Fellowship. During the morning service the graduates were honored as Rev. Huse presented the high school senior girls with white Bibles, and the senior boys with blue Bibles excepting Stephen Seames whom we share with the Locke Mills Union Church and from which he had already received a Bible. Those receiving white Bibles were: Sandra Larlee (Gorham, N. H., High School), Terri Lea Mason (Telstar Regional), Kathy Morgan (TRHS), and Philip H. Chadoburne, Bethel, to Judy Robinson (TRHS), and re-Robert M. Cooper, Auburn, real ceiving a blue Bible was Charles (Chuck) Mason, (TRHS), Debbie Stearns, who graduated from Eastern Nazarene College was presented with a praying hands necklace and Stephen Seames (Gould Academy) was given a Ten Commandment key chain. Ricky Seames and Donald Morin were then taken into church membership by the pastor and welcomed The evening service opened with by the Church Board. the song "It's Just Like His Great Love," followed by a prayer by Mrs. Ersel Murphy. The Congregation sang "Jesus and Me," and "Follow Me" and then with Stephen Seames at the plano, he and Sandra Larlee sang "Love Lifteth Me." Sandy then got out her gultar and sang "Loyest Thou Me." A surprise special (to those taking part also) was a chorus consisting of Mr. and Mrs. "Pat" Murphy, Mrs. Robert Stearns, Debbie Stearns, Sandy Larlee, Jim Cobb. and Stephen Scames singing "Whispering Hope," The Children's Church sang "Jesus Loves Me," and the musical service concluded with the father-son learn of Jim and James Cobb leading the congregation in "Jesus is Coming Soon," If you've never heard young Jimmy belt out the chorus of that one you've missed something. He believes in what he's singing and he puts every ounce of breath behind his beliefs. Testimonies and a couple of choruses led into the message by the pastor, Rev. Barbara Huse based on Psalm 37:23, "Life in Steps," the growth and development of children, the growth of Jesus, and the step of faith. In closing there was singing around the alter, as youngslers and oldsters alike joined in "I've Decided to Follow Jesus." Closing prayer was by Gerry Shimamura,

The graduates were then honor you boys to show up" guests at a fellowship supper which was enjoyed by all. The Church of the Nazarene certainly appreciated the 1975 graduates and their parents taking part in the celebration and especially Stephen Seames on the plane and Sandra Larlee, for the special music. On the Job With Emily Week of May 27-31

The last week of May in the Maine Legislature began with yet another in a series of recent vetoes of bills and subsequent veto over-rides. The Governor, after promising to do so for several days, vetoed the bill which would exempt from the state sales tax the electricity used by Sobin Chemical of Orrington in its manufacturing process, Company officials had been waiting anxiously since the end of the previous week for the Governor's action since their planned expansion of operations was predicated in part on this legislation. Shortly after the veto was signed it was hand carried to the House of Representatives where the veto was over-ridden in a vote of 123-5. The bill was then sent immediately to the Senate where that body voted to override 27-5.

The controversial "Bottle Bill" the bill to ban non-returnable beverage containers, received action in both bodies of the Legislature this past week. The bill had received initial approval in the House with an amendment that would require that this measure be sent out for a referendum vote. However, the Senate removed that amendment and then passed the bill by a two vote margin. The bill then went back to the House as a socalled "non-concurrent" matter since the version passed by the Senate, without the referendum amendment, did not correspond to the version originally passed in the House. The House voted to "Recede and Concur", or in othwords, agreed to approve the Senate version. However, when the bill went back to the Senate for final enactment, the Senate voted to indefinitely postpone the bill. The bill was later revived with the referendum provision and ultimately defeated by the Senate. The Legislature voted to kill the bill that would have given the Legislature final approval authority on nuclear power plant construction in Maine, which had been sponsored by Rep. Wilfong of Stow. The original bill called for approval from a number of organizations as well as the Legislature, but the final form included only the Maine Legislature. The bill was debated at considerable length and after a variety of motions were made, the House voted to accept the Energy Committee's minority report of "Ought Not To

The Maine Senate voted against a bill that would require that legislative contracts in excess of $500 be sent out for competitive bidding. It has not been the practice in previous Legislatures to seek competitive bldding on most contracts by the Legislature. Earlier in the session, the legislative leadership put out to competitive bid the contract for the printing of the legislative Journal and Register. As a result of this action, several thousand dollars has been saved compared to contract costs in previous years when competitive bidding was not used. Consequently, a bill was introduced to make this a permanent practice. However, in a straight party line vote, Senate Republicans, who are in the ma-jority, opposed this bill, thereby killing it.

Two bills of interest to municipal officials were signed into law last

WATERFRONT AREA CHANGES NEED ENVIRONMENTAL O. K.

Eager do-it-yourselfers who have been waiting for spring weather to make changes to waterfront areas had better sit tight. This is the advice of the Maine Department of Environmental Protection to anyone who has not yet obtained a permit to do such work.

Most alterations to shorelines in Maine must be reviewed and approved by local and state agencies in advance of construction or alteration projects. Application forms may be obtained by writing to the Bureau of Land Quality Control, Department of Environmental Protection, State House, Augusta, Maine 04330

Exceptions to the permit requirement are temporary structures such as floats and floating wharfs and piers. If the structure will be removed from the water for more than five months each calendar year, a permit may not be required.

DEP enforcement officials are advising shorefront owners to check with the Department or local wardens prior to such projects as adding sand to beaches, dredging, filling, bulldozing or building boat houses. Wardens from the Department of Inland Fisheries and Game support DEP in enforcement of the Great Ponds Act, while the Department of Marine Resources wardens help enforce the Coastal Wetlands Law.

As Maine lakes become more thickly settled, the need increases to protect these waters from cumulative damage caused by violations of the Great Ponds Act. (A great pond is defined as "any natural pond with a surface area in excess of 10 acres or any artificially formed pond with a surface area in excess of 30 acres, when the shore is owned by two or more owners."

Remember when planning a dock that the less bottom area you disturb, the better, Removable docks and wharfs that are supported by wagon wheels, steel pipes or tim-bers will cause the least amount of habitat destruction.

Water quality, too, may often be impaired by soil erosion. When lake shores and banks are stripped of cover, soil nutrients are eroded into the lake. A good rule to re-member: "Don't remove any rocks, trees, or shrubs along your shorefront unless it is absolutely necessary.

Time invested in filing a Great Ponds or a Coastal Wetlands application is often money saved. Free an alteration has saved many a shoreland owner from costly er-

KEEP RECREATIONAL VEHICLES ON TRACK WITH TIMELY TIRE CARE Many of the nation's five and one-half million recreational vehicles (RV's) are off and running, and timely tire safety and main-tenance checks will help keep them on the track all season, says the Tire Industry Safety Council.

"Two important precautions are: first, make sure you have enough tread left to get off to a good start this season, then check reg-ularly to insure your tires are properly inflated," said Council Chairman Malcolm R, Lovell, Jr.

"According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration tires are bald, or unsafe, if they have less than 1/16 inch of tread depth between two grooves," Lovell said,

"Many RV drivers mistakenly overinflate their tires to handle heavy loads," Lovell also said, "but inflation beyond the safe limit is no substitute for the proper tires for the weight you want to Inflating beyond the maximum allowable pressure in pounds per square inch, the "pai max" figure molded on the sidewall, hardens the tire to the point it becomes extremely vulnerable to possible damage, inside and out.

All RV's manufactured since the beginning of 1972 have gross axle weight ratings on a label attached near the driver's seat. Divide the number of tires on the axle into its weight rating to determine the load each tire milit nearly. the load each tire must carry.

To check RV tire load limitations write for a free copy of the Coun-cil's Recreational Vehicle Consumer Tire Code, Address letters to "Recreation," Box 726, N. Y., N. Y. 10010.

The Guide also includes other critical information on RV tire safety and proper vehicle loading. Tire load limitations can also be checked in the vehicle owner's manual, or by consulting a tire

American Viewpoints

While I can make no claim for having introduced the term "rugged individualism." 1 should be proud to have invented it. It has been used by American leaders for over a half-century in eulogy of those God-fearing men and women of honesty whose stamina and character and fearless assertion of rights led them to make their own way in life. Herbert Hoover

From Mrs. Evelyn Tobias, Oak Park, Michigan:

I remember the good old days as a child growing up in the 30's, living in a middle class neighborhood. We lived with all kinds of different nationalities. From them I learned many different menus on food. Jewish, Italian, Greek, Irish, and Polish-I learned brotherhood.

We went into all the different churches and felt respect towards all the religions, with a firm belief in my own. I can recall helping my Catholic friends decorate the Christmas tree.

I can recall the games we played after school-skip rope, hop-scotch, and hit-the-ball-against-the wall. I rode on a wooden scooter that my father built for me. We always waited for our beloved "Joe the Junkman" who would come through the alley with his horse Rosie hitched to an old wagon painted green. The old mare Rosie would wear a straw hat with a huge rose in the middle of it. Oh yes, those days have passed, but memories shall always last about the good old days of the

APRIL FATAL ACCIDENTS OVER THAT OF APRIL 1974 The Maine State Police reports

13 persons killed in 13 fatal accidents during April, 1975. Col. Donald E. Nichols, Chief of Maine State Police, said the number of persons increased by one and the number of fatal accidents also increased by one over April of 1974. The April fatal accident summary showed eight drivers, three passengers (including one school bus passenger), one pedestrian, and one bike rider killed. Seat belts were not used by any of the deceased occupants of the vehi-

The primary causes of fatal accidents were drivers being under the influence of liquor (5), on the wrong side of the roadway (1), improper or failure to signal over posted speed limit, (2), fatigued or asleep (1): In addition one was caused by faulty bicycle, one by faulty pedestrian action, one killed by a load falling off a truck striking a school bus. Of the motor vehicle operators involved in the fatal accidents, 14 were male and four were female, Nine were under age 25, six were age 25 to 54, and three were over

The monthly vehicle accident summary, based on reports received as of May 9, showed total accidents for April were 1,678—an increase of 38 over the same 1974 period. Total persons injured increased by 25 for an April 1975 to-

LIFE PRESERVERS OF UTMOST IMPORTANCE

Watercraft accidents in Maine in past years have been traced in a variety of causes, with over-loading and standing up in boat heading the list. But one of the most prevalent causes of injury re sulting from these accidents is failure to have adequate, approved personal flotation devices (PFD's) on board.

Boatmen should check all PFD's before each trip to ensure that they are of the approved type, in good condition, and most important, accessible to the boat's occupants. Persons who cannot swim should wear the devices, and exeryone should have them on in rough conditions.

of PFD's, defined by U. S. Coast Guard standards. The 1975 Maine boat law lists in table form all required devices, describing what types are required for different size craft. Copies of this law may be obtained from wardens, boat dealers and builders, town clerks Coast Guard stations, and the Division of Water aft Registration and Safety Office in Augusta, Maine offers many, many fine opportunities to enjoy boating act ivities. But please be careful -there have already been eight fa talities directly connected with boating accidents this spring, Don't be a statistic at the season's end!
